STANFORD UNIVERSITY

Stanford University is a place of discovery, creativity, innovation and world-class medical care. Dedicated to its founding mission of benefitting society through research and education, Stanford strives to create a sustainable future for all, catalyze discoveries about ourselves and our world, accelerate the societal impact of its research, and educate students as global citizens. The university is located in the San Francisco Bay Area on the ancestral land of the Muwekma Ohlone Tribe and first welcomed students in 1891. Its main campus holds seven schools along with interdisciplinary research and policy institutes, athletics, and the arts. More than 7,000 undergraduate and 9,000 graduate students pursue studies at Stanford each year.

The Leland Stanford Junior University was founded in 1885 by Jane and Leland Stanford in memory of their only child, Leland Jr., who died of typhoid fever at 15. After his 1884 death, the Stanfords determined that they would do something for other people's children.

They decided to create a university that was, from the outset, untraditional: coeducational in a time when most private universities were all-male; nondenominational when most were associated with a religious organization; and practical, producing cultured and useful citizens. The Founding Grant states the university's objective is "to qualify its students for personal success, and direct usefulness in life" and its purpose "to promote the public welfare by exercising an influence in behalf of humanity and civilization."

Leland Stanford, who served as California's governor and senator, devoted to the university the fortune he had earned, first by supplying provisions to the '49ers mining for California gold and later as one of the "Big Four," whose Central Pacific Railroad laid tracks eastward to meet the Union Pacific and complete the transcontinental railway. Included in the Founding Grant was the Stanfords' Palo Alto Stock Farm for the breeding and training of trotting horses, 35 miles south of the family's San Francisco residence.

The Stanfords stipulated that the land they conveyed to the university could not be sold, and the campus still carries the nickname "the Farm." The campus sits on the ancestral land of the Muwekma Ohlone Tribe. This land was and continues to be of great importance to the Ohlone people. Today, the university and the Muwekma Ohlone Tribe are partners in community-led archaeology, historic interpretation and a native plant garden.

The Stanfords engaged landscape architect Frederick Law Olmsted to design the campus. Their collaboration with Olmsted and the architectural firm of Shepley, Rutan, and Coolidge resulted in Stanford's characteristic buildings of local sandstone with red-tiled roofs, surrounding a cloistered quadrangle with Memorial Church as its focus. The rectangular plan of the Main Quadrangle was designed to provide for expansion through a series of quadrangles developed laterally. Stanford opened its doors on Oct. 1, 1891, with some 555 students enrolled in the first year.

JOHN DONAHOE

JAQUISH & KENNINGER DIRECTOR AND CHAIR OF ATHLETICS

Following a national search, Stanford University President Jon Levin has appointed John Donahoe as Stanford's next Jaquish & Kenninger Director and Chair of Athletics. Donahoe, an alumnus of Stanford's Graduate School of Business, most recently served as Chief Executive Officer of Nike. The eighth Director of Athletics in school history, Donahoe started Sept. 8, 2025.

"Stanford occupies a unique place in the national athletics landscape," Levin said. "We needed a distinctive leader – someone with the vision, judgment, and strategic acumen for a new era of college athletics, and with a deep appreciation for Stanford's model of scholar-athlete excellence. John embodies these characteristics. We're grateful he has agreed to lead Stanford Athletics through this critical period in college sports."

"My north star for 40 years has been servant leadership, and it is a tremendous honor to be able to come back to serve a university I love and to lead Stanford Athletics through a pivotal and tumultuous time in collegiate sports," Donahoe said. "Stanford has enormous strengths and enormous potential in a changing environment, including being the model for achieving both academic and athletic excellence at the highest levels. I can't wait to work in partnership with the Stanford team to build momentum for Stanford Athletics and ensure the best possible experiences for our student-athletes."

In November 2024, under Levin's leadership, Stanford hired former Cardinal and NFL quarterback Andrew Luck to the newly created position of general manager for Stanford Football. With Luck leading the drive for success in the football program, Levin said, Stanford next set out to find in its athletic director search an innovative and experienced leader to position Stanford's entire 36-sport program for continued success in an era shaped by an evolving media landscape, revenue sharing, NIL deals, expanded transfer, and conference realignment. Luck will report to Donahoe in his new capacity.

Donahoe was the CEO of Nike from 2020-24 and served on its board of directors beginning in 2014. Prior to that, he served as the CEO of ServiceNow, a global software company, and as CEO of eBay. He served as chair of the board at PayPal from 2015-25. Earlier in his career, he worked for Bain & Company for nearly 20 years, including as the firm's worldwide CEO.

Donahoe earned a bachelor's degree in economics from Dartmouth College and his MBA from Stanford's Graduate School of Business. He now serves on the school's Advisory Council. He is a former basketball player and lifelong sports fan.

"John knows Stanford, and he has a unique blend of leadership at the highest levels along with deep business experience and relationships, most notably in sports, technology, and media," said Stanford trustee Amy Brooks, co-chair of the search committee and president, New Business Ventures, at the National Basketball Association. "We are very fortunate to bring in John to provide energetic and principled leadership for Stanford Athletics in this period of rapid change."

"The core principles of Stanford athletics are that our student-athletes are, first and foremost, Stanford students, that we provide a wide range of participation opportunities, and that we seek excellence in both academics and athletics," said Jay Mitchell, Stanford's faculty athletics representative and co-chair of the search committee. "John is deeply committed to those principles. I think John is the perfect choice for us."

Donahoe said his priorities for Stanford Athletics will include sustaining the Stanford student-athlete model and galvanizing community support for it; building a sustainable financial model; engaging externally; and ensuring that the Stanford Athletics organization is "at the top of the game in college athletics."

Donahoe said head coaches have been among his greatest models for leadership. "It's an honor to have the chance to work with the coaches and the rest of the team to lead Stanford Athletics in a way that inspires confidence, faith, momentum, and hope," he said.

WHAT THEY'RE SAYING...

"Two academic institutions have played an outsized role in Nike's birth and its culture: the University of Oregon athletic department with hall of fame coach Bill Bowerman, and the Stanford Graduate School of Business under the legendary Ernie Arbuckle. Stanford has made an excellent choice for its new athletic director in John Donahoe. They will not find anyone smarter or with more integrity and dedication. Given the importance that Stanford continues to place on the academic development of its student athletes, it couldn't have picked a better person than John, and under his leadership, Stanford Athletics has both a very bright future and an opportunity to serve as a role model in the rapidly evolving world of college athletics."

Phil Knight, MBA '62 and Nike co-founder

"This hire is a slam-dunk. John's experience and skills will immediately benefit our athletics department and I am excited to see what he will accomplish on The Farm. This is a great day for Stanford and for Stanford Athletics."

Tara VanDerveer, former head women's basketball coach

"It's exciting to have in this role a longtime Stanford community member who is passionate about all facets of athletics and the student-athlete experience, and who also brings the strategic vision and deep leadership experience that will be critical to the excellence of Stanford Athletics in the period ahead."

Lily Sarafan, chair of the Stanford Board of Trustees

"John is a proven leader with deep connections to Stanford who can meet the contemporary challenges of college athletics while supporting the crucial academic component of success in our student-athlete model. John also will be a terrific partner with us in supporting and advancing the success of our women's sports and Olympic sports. I'm excited to work with him to strengthen Stanford Athletics and ensure Stanford's continued special place in the world of intercollegiate athletics."

Condoleezza Rice, director of the Hoover Institution and member of the search committee

"I am absolutely thrilled John Donahoe is joining as our next athletic director. He brings unparalleled experience and elite leadership to our athletic department in a time of opportunity and change. I could not be more excited to partner with and learn from him."

Andrew Luck, general manager of Stanford Football

HEAD COACH

KYLE SMITH

Anne And Tony Joseph Director Of Men's Basketball
2nd Season at Stanford
Hamilton College, 1992

Kyle Smith was announced as the Anne and Tony Joseph Director of Men's Basketball on March 25, 2024, and begins his second season at Stanford in 2025-26.

In its first season in the ACC, and the first under Smith, the Cardinal finished the 2024-25 season at 21-14 overall, marking its most total victories since 2014-15 while matching a program record with 17 wins at Maples Pavilion. Stanford went 9-1 at home in the ACC, while Smith is just the second coach in program history to win 20 or more games in his first season. Additionally, the seven-win improvement year-to-year matches a program record for a first-year head coach. Smith saw numerous players have career-best seasons, led by All-American and ACC first team honoree and Scholar-Athlete of the Year, Maxime Raynaud.

Smith landed at The Farm following a successful five-year stint at Washington State, where he went 94-71 overall, including a 25-10 mark and second-place finish in the Pac-12 in 2023-24. Smith holds a 279-207 career record across 15 seasons as a head coach, including six seasons at Columbia and three at San Francisco. Additionally, he spent 18 years as an assistant coach with stretches at Saint Mary's (2001-10), Air Force (2000-01) and San Diego (1992-2000).

The 2024 John R. Wooden Pac-12 Coach of the Year, Smith led the Cougars to a No. 7 seed in the NCAA Tournament, advancing to the round of 32 with a victory over Drake in the opening round, while the postseason event was the seventh for Smith as a head coach and third with Washington State. The Cougars also reached the NIT semifinals in 2022 and earned a bid for a second consecutive season in 2023.

Smith was the first coach in Washington State history to post a .500 or better record in each of his first four seasons, doing so after taking over a program that was under .500 in each of the previous seven campaigns.

HEAD COACH

KYLE SMITH

A talented coach known for expertise in analytics and player development, Smith's tutelage has included three NBA Draft selections in CJ Elleby (2020), Mouhamed Gueye (2023) and Jaylen Wells (2024), as well as Pac-12 Freshman of the Year Myles Rice (2024), while three Cougars earned All-Pac-12 recognition in 2024. Smith also coached San Francisco's Jamaree Bouyea, who made his NBA debut in 2023, and mentored a series of professional athletes as an assistant coach, including NBA players Matthew Dellavedova and Patty Mills at Saint Mary's.

Smith has also seen success on the recruiting trail, landing two top-60 classes, the highest for Washington State in over a decade. He signed a top-100 prospect to Pullman in the class of 2022, the first for the program since Klay Thompson in 2008.

Prior to Smith's tenure at Washington State, he led San Francisco to a 63-40 record, including 20 wins or more in each season and two postseason appearances. His three straight 20-win seasons marked just the fourth time in school history that a USF coach accomplished the feat and the first time in nearly 40 years. Smith produced seven All-WCC picks, paced by two-time All-WCC first team selection Frankie Ferrari.

Preceding his time in the Bay Area, he served as the head coach at Columbia where he put together a 101-82 overall mark, including a CIT Championship in his final season. Smith mentored 10 All-Ivy League selections over his six seasons at Columbia, led by Maodo Lo, a two-time first team honoree and the second-leading scorer in school history.

Smith played an integral role in building the Gaels' program into a perennial championship contender in the West Coast Conference under head coach Randy Bennett. In his nine seasons in Moraga, the Gaels made three NCAA Tournament (2005, '08, '10) appearances and earned one NIT bid (2009). Saint Mary's averaged 23 wins over Smith's last six seasons on the staff, including an 81-20 record over his final three seasons. The 2009-10 team finished with a 28-6 record, advanced to the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Championship and was ranked 19th nationally in the final ESPN/USA Today Coaches Poll.

During his one season at Air Force, Smith served as the Falcons' offensive and recruiting coordinator and took a lead role with player development and scouting. He was instrumental in the recruitment of 2003-04 Mountain West Conference Player of the Year Nick Welch along with all-conference players Antoine Hood and A.J. Kuhle.

Before joining the Falcons, Smith served eight seasons as an assistant coach at San Diego from 1992-2000 under Hank Egan and Brad Holland. During his time at San Diego, Smith helped lead the Toreros to their second-highest win total in school history (20 in 1999-2000) and as associate head coach, orchestrated a defense that allowed the lowest opponent scoring average (62.6) in the West Coast Conference (62.6 in 1999-2000).

Born in El Paso, Texas, Smith graduated in 1992 from Hamilton College with a degree in English literature. He also played basketball and helped lead the Continentals to a 26-1 record and the No. 1 ranking in the nation for NCAA Division III as a junior. He shot a school-record 51.3 percent from three-point range and helped Hamilton to an Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) championship.

Smith earned a master's degree in educational leadership from the University of San Diego, where he began his coaching career.

Kyle and his wife, Katie, have three sons, Rocco, Bo, and Luke.

COACHING STAFF

ERIC REVENO

James C. Gaither Associate Head Men's Basketball Coach / General Manager
2nd Season Back At Stanford, 11th Total
Stanford, 1989

Eric Reveno '89 was announced as the James C. Gaither Associate Head Men's Basketball Coach in April, 2024 and added responsibilities as General Manager in June, 2025. Reveno is in his 11th season overall on the staff at Stanford.

Reveno returns to his alma mater, where he was a four-year letterwinner from 1985-89 and a two-time team captain. Additionally, Reveno starts his second stint on the Cardinal bench, as he was an assistant coach from 1997-2004 and the program's associate head coach from 2005-06 under Mike Montgomery and Trent Johnson.

A native of Stanford, Reveno has helped lead the Cardinal to eight 20-win seasons, three 30-win seasons, eight NCAA Tournament appearances, an NCAA Final Four in 1998, three years with a No. 1 national ranking and four Pacific-10 Conference Championships. He was named one of the top-25 recruiters in the nation by Rivals in 2006.

In its first season in the ACC, and the first under Kyle Smith, the Cardinal finished the 2024-25 campaign at 21-14 overall, marking its most total victories since 2014-15 while matching a program record with 17 wins at Maples Pavilion. Stanford went 9-1 at home in the ACC, while numerous players had career-best seasons, led by All-American and ACC first team honoree and Scholar-Athlete of the Year, Maxime Raynaud.

The West Coast Conference Coach of the Year in 2009, Reveno spent 10 seasons as the head coach at Portland from 2006-16, where he amassed 140 victories and four postseason appearances. The Pilots averaged 20 wins a season from 2008-10, including back-to-back third place finishes in the WCC. Twenty of Reveno's Pilots were named to All-WCC teams, including eight first-team selections, and 16 of his graduates went on to play professionally. Off the court, the Pilots had 20 WCC All-Academic selections and his team boasted a 100 percent graduation rate and a near-perfect rating according to the NCAA's Academic Progress Rate (APR).

After his time at Portland, Reveno spent five seasons at Georgia Tech, working primarily with the post players. He developed center Ben Lammers into a second-team All-ACC performer and a two-time ACC Defensive Player of the Year, James Banks III into two-time ACC All-Defensive Team honors, and Moses Wright from and unheralded recruit to the ACC Player of the Year. During the summer of 2021, he served as an assistant coach for the Czech Republic's U18 team in European Challenger events.

One of the nation's leading advocates for the All Vote, No Play movement, Reveno earned the Guardians of the Game Award from the National Association of Basketball Coaches in 2021.

Reveno joined the Oregon State staff in 2022 as associate head coach, spending two seasons in Corvallis. He helped guide one of the youngest teams in the nation, helping Jordan Pope to Pac-12 All-Freshman honors in 2023 and All-Pac-12 honorable mention status in 2024.

Reveno played in 116 games during his career at Stanford (1985-87, 89), including 30 games as a starter during his senior season. He was a two-time team captain and helped the Cardinal to a 26-7 record (15-3 mark in the Pac-10) and a No. 12 national ranking. The Cardinal advanced to the NCAA Tournament, Stanford's first appearance in the tourney since 1942.

Reveno earned his bachelor's degree from Stanford in economics in 1989 and spent the next four years playing professional basketball in Japan. He returned to Stanford and earned a master's degree in business administration in 1995.

Before joining the Stanford coaching staff in 1997, he served as president of Riekes Center in Menlo Park, a non-profit mentoring organization that works with athletes of all ages, for two years.

Reveno and his wife, Amanda, have two children, Katie and Andrew.

COACHING STAFF

JIM SHAW

Oscar Da Silva Associate Head Men's Basketball Coach
2nd Season At Stanford
Western Oregon, 1985

Jim Shaw is in his second season at Stanford as the Oscar da Silva Associate Head Men's Basketball Coach.

In its first season in the ACC, and the first under Kyle Smith, the Cardinal finished the 2024-25 campaign at 21-14 overall, marking its most total victories since 2014-15 while matching a program record with 17 wins at Maples Pavilion. Stanford went 9-1 at home in the ACC, while numerous players had career-best seasons, led by All-American and ACC first team honoree and Scholar-Athlete of the Year, Maxime Raynaud.

Shaw joins the Cardinal after spending the previous five seasons at Washington State, helping guide the Cougars to a 25-10 mark and second-place finish in the Pac-12 in 2023-24. The Cougars received a No. No. 7 seed in the NCAA Tournament, advancing to the round of 32 with a victory over Drake in the opening round. The Cougars also played in the NIT in 2022 and 2023.

Joining Kyle Smith's staff at Washington State in 2019, Shaw was previously the head coach at Western Oregon from 2015-19. He led the Wolves to a 102-30 overall record, including two 31-win campaigns, which included a No. 1 overall ranking and three trips to the NCAA Division II Men's Basketball tournament. He led the program to three Elite Eights, marking the first time Western Oregon reached the round of eight in a national tournament since 1982, and a Final Four in 2016.

Shaw was the GNAC Coach of the Year twice as well as the National Basketball Coaches' Association's West Region Coach of the Year in 2018.

Shaw spent two seasons alongside Randy Bennett at Saint Mary's, with one year as a special assistant to the head coach during the 2013-14 season before becoming an assistant coach in 2014-15. With the Gaels, Shaw helped guide the Gaels to back-to-back 20-win seasons as well as a pair of postseason appearances.

Prior to Saint Mary's, Shaw spent nine seasons (2004-2013) as an assistant coach at the University of Washington alongside former head coach Lorenzo Romar. During his time at Washington, the Huskies went a combined 208-100, which is the best nine-year record in school history, while also going 118-54 from 2009-2013 to mark the best five-year stretch in school history. During that span, Shaw was a part of five Pac-10 Championships, five NCAA Tournament appearances, and three appearances in the Sweet 16. He was pivotal in the Huskies' run to their first Pac-10 Tournament championship in 2005 and first No. 1 seed into the NCAA Tournament.

Before Washington, Shaw served the previous five seasons (1999-2004) at the University of Oklahoma on Kelvin Sampson's staff. He helped the Sooners to a 131-37 record, three Big 12 Tournament titles, a Final Four appearance in 2002 and an Elite Eight berth in 2003.

From 1994 through 1999, Shaw served as assistant coach at the University of Portland where he helped the Pilots to a pair of 20-win campaigns and a 1996 NCAA Tournament berth, which was the school's first in over 30 years. Shaw coached at Oregon State during the 1990 and 1991 seasons alongside Jim Anderson, as the nationally-ranked 1990 Beaver team, which featured Hall of Fame point guard Gary Payton, won the Pac-10 championship and advanced to the NCAA Tournament.

Shaw's first assistant coaching assignment came in 1986-87 at Idaho State where he helped lead the Bengals to an impressive run to the Big Sky Tournament championship and the league's automatic NCAA Tournament berth. That was ISU's first NCAA appearance in 10 years.

A 1985 graduate of Western Oregon State College, Shaw was an NAIA honorable mention All-American and district MVP runner-up as a senior. During his career with the Wolves, Shaw played for WOU Hall of Fame coach Jim Boutin and helped lead WOSC to a win-loss record of 72-20 over a three-year stretch.

Shaw was a 2022 inductee to the Western Oregon Hall of Fame. He earned his master's degree in athletic administration from Idaho State in 1986. A native of Chimacum, Wash., Shaw attended Chimacum High School where he was an all-state performer in both basketball and football.

Shaw has two grown children – daughter Brittany and son Bradley.

COACHING STAFF

WAYNE HUNTER

Assistant Coach
2nd Season At Stanford
Saint Mary's, 2010

Wayne Hunter is in his second season at Stanford as assistant coach.

In its first season in the ACC, and the first under Kyle Smith, the Cardinal finished the 2024-25 campaign at 21-14 overall, marking its most total victories since 2014-15 while matching a program record with 17 wins at Maples Pavilion. Stanford went 9-1 at home in the ACC, while numerous players had career-best seasons, led by All-American and ACC first team honoree and Scholar-Athlete of the Year, Maxime Raynaud.

Hunter spent two seasons on Kyle Smith's staff at Washington State, helping guide the Cougars to a 25-10 mark and second-place finish in the Pac-12 in 2023-24. The Cougars received a No. No. 7 seed in the NCAA Tournament, advancing to the round of 32 with a victory over Drake in the opening round. The Cougars played in the NIT during Hunter's first season on staff.

During his two years on the Palouse, Hunter's Cougars earned four All-Pac-12 selections including Freshman of the Year and Freshman All-American Myles Rice in 2024 and NBA Draft selection Mouhamed Gueye in 2023.

Prior to his arrival in Pullman, Hunter spent the 2021-22 season at Saint Mary's where he helped the Gaels to a 26-8 record and capped off the regular season at home with a win over top-ranked Gonzaga. The Gaels were a No. 5 seed in the NCAA Tournament, the highest in program history, while reaching the second round.

Hunter got his collegiate coaching start in two seasons at UC Riverside as an assistant coach, where he helped guide the Highlanders to their most successful season in program history in 2020-21. Taking the lead on defensive analytics and advance scouting of opponents, Hunters' Highlanders ranked among the elite defensive teams in the country, ranking 28th in scoring defense and 23rd in defensive field goal percentage. As a team, the Highlanders landed four players on the All-Big West team. In addition to his coaching, Hunter was instrumental in the recruiting of UCR's highest ranked recruit class in program history, including the Highlanders' first four-star prep signee.

Hunter started his coaching career in the AAU and high school ranks at Kennedy High School, Oakland Technical High School, James Logan High School, and Miramonte High School, as well as leading AAU's West Coast Elite Basketball Nor-Cal. As part of the National Under Armour Association (UAA) Circuit, the West Coast Elite U16 team rated as one of the top teams in the nation routinely ranking in the top-5 nationally among all UAA teams.

As a player, Hunter was a standout combo guard at Saint Mary's where he helped lead the Gaels to three postseason appearances including a run to the Sweet 16 in 2010 as a senior. Kyle Smith was an assistant coach for each of Hunter's four seasons in Moraga. He graduated with a degree in communications in 2010.

He and his wife, Melissa, have a daughter, Maliya, and a son, Wayne.

COACHING STAFF

JEREMY HARDEN

Assistant Coach
2nd Season At Stanford
Arizona, 2012

Jeremy Harden is in his second season with the Stanford men's basketball program and first as assistant coach.

In its first season in the ACC, and the first under Kyle Smith, the Cardinal finished the 2024-25 campaign at 21-14 overall, marking its most total victories since 2014-15 while matching a program record with 17 wins at Maples Pavilion. Stanford went 9-1 at home in the ACC, while numerous players had career-best seasons, led by All-American and ACC first team honoree and Scholar-Athlete of the Year, Maxime Raynaud.

Harden joined the Washington State staff under Smith for the 2023-24 campaign, helping guide the Cougars to a 25-10 mark and second-place finish in the Pac-12 in 2023-24. The Cougars received a No. 7 seed in the NCAA Tournament, advancing to the round of 32 with a victory over Drake in the opening round.

The Cougars had three players earn All-Pac-12 status in 2023-24, led by first-team selection Isaac Jones, who also earned ESPN National Player of the Week honors, and freshman All-American Myles Rice. Harden was instrumental in the recruitment and development of Jones.

Joining the Cardinal with more than a decade of coaching experience, Harden spent one season at Idaho and five seasons as the head coach at Wenatchee Valley College from 2017-22.

Harden led the Knights to an impressive 95-35 (.730) overall record and five consecutive winning seasons, including a Northwest Athletic Conference (NWAC) East Region title and an NWAC Final Four appearance in 2021-22.

Harden was named East Region Coach of the Year while the team held the best regional record (15-1) and was the No. 1 scoring offense (93.1 PPG). He claimed his first NWAC Region title in 2021, as his team finished 11-2 in region play, while his 2019 team included WVS's first postseason appearance in four years. He coached consecutive NWAC scoring champions - Justin Martin (2018) and Malik Parsons (2019) - and would go on to coach a third in Isaac Jones (2022).

Prior to his stint at WVC, Harden was an assistant at Tohono O'odham Community College in 2016-17, and he spent three seasons as the director of player development at Boise State (2013-16) under head coach Leon Rice. Harden helped lead the Broncos to their first Mountain West Conference Championship in 2015 and an appearance in the NCAA Tournament.

Harden made his college coaching debut in 2012, serving one season as an assistant at Eastern Oregon University. The Mountaineers tallied a 28-5 record and received their first No. 1 ranking in program history. EOU went on to win the Cascade Collegiate Conference championship and earn a berth in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) national tournament.

A Tucson, Arizona native, Harden played for two seasons at Pima Community College. He was a two-year starter and led the Aztecs to their first National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) Region Championship, along with a No. 7 overall finish at the 2010 NJCAA National Championships.

A graduate from Eastern Oregon University with a master's degree in business administration in 2016, Harden received a bachelor's degree in communications at the University of Arizona in 2012.

COACHING STAFF

BRETT MACCONNELL

Assistant Coach
1st Season At Stanford
Rutgers, 2008

Brett MacConnell is in his first season at Stanford as an assistant coach with the men's basketball program.

MacConnell joins the Cardinal after helping Princeton to 231 wins over 12 seasons, including four Ivy League championships (2024, 2023, 2022, 2017), two Ivy League Tournament championships (2017, 2023) and six 20-win seasons. Additionally, MacConnell helped guide Princeton to the 2023 Sweet Sixteen as a No. 15 seed, with the Tigers becoming just the fourth team in NCAA Tournament history to accomplish the feat.

An elite recruiter and developer of talent, MacConnell has coached four Ivy League Players of the Year and 19 professional players. Two players – Tosan Evbuomwan and Devin Cannady – have reached the NBA, while the Tigers combined for 29 all-conference selections during his tenure. Most recently, MacConnell recruited and mentored 2024 Ivy League Player of the Year Cade Pierce and two-time All-Ivy League honoree Xaivian Lee.

On the Princeton coaching staff since 2013, MacConnell was previously the Princeton director of basketball operations from 2012-13 and the Saint Peter's director of basketball operations from 2011-12. He was an assistant coach from 2010-11 at Holy Family University and associate head coach at Delaware Valley College from 2008-10.

Celebrated nationally, MacConnell was invited to the prestigious 2024 TopConnect Basketball Symposium, which identifies the top assistant basketball coaches in the country and connects them with Athletic Directors from around the nation. MacConnell also served as Princeton's acting head coach four times, finishing with a 3-1 record.

A 2008 graduate from Rutgers, MacConnell is married to Sarah (Samad) MacConnell, a former strength and conditioning coach at Virginia Tech, Maryland and VMU. They have two sons, Cooper and Paxton, and his father, Kevin, is the Chief of Staff for the football program at Rutgers.

AMANDA LELAND

Assistant General Manager
1st Season At Stanford
Kansas, 2005

Amanda Leland is in her first season as assistant general manager with the Stanford men's basketball program.

Leland joined the Cardinal after 13 years at Pacific, where she spent 10 years as the director of operations for the women's basketball program and three years in the development office, one on the university side as associate director of annual giving and the last two as Director of Athletics Development/Pacific Athletic Foundation.

Bringing a lifetime of experience in college basketball to the Farm, Leland spent seven years at Kansas from 2005-12 with the women's basketball program as administrative assistant to the head coach (2007-12), Bonnie Hendrickson, and as an intern for the University of Kansas Williams Educational Fund, serving as a liaison between coaches and teams while also coordinating donor events.

In this newly expanded role, Leland will oversee key operational areas across the program's internal management and external engagement efforts. Her responsibilities will include financial oversight, scheduling coordination, and strategic planning support. She will also play a lead role in program development initiatives, guiding efforts related to fundraising, alumni relations, and event programming, while helping enhance the overall experience for student-athletes and supporters.

As an undergraduate, Leland earned four letters on Kansas' rowing team, which won the 2003 Big XII Rowing Championship. She was also a four-time Athletics Scholar recipient, and she was the rowing team representative on the Student Athlete Advisory Committee.

Leland earned her Master's of Arts in Sports Administration from Pacific in 2016. She graduated from Kansas in 2005 with a degree in communications with a sports management emphasis.

Leland's father, Ted Leland, spent 14 years as Stanford's Director of Athletics from 1991-2005 and was a two-time Director of Athletics at Pacific.

In its first season in the ACC, and the first under Kyle Smith, the Cardinal finished the 2024-25 campaign at 21-14 overall, marking its most total victories since 2014-15 while matching a program record with 17 wins at Maples Pavilion. Stanford went 9-1 at home in the ACC, while numerous players had career-best seasons, led by All-American and ACC first team honoree and Scholar-Athlete of the Year, Maxime Raynaud.

Yano joined the Washington State staff under Smith for the 2023-24 campaign, helping guide the Cougars to a 25-10 mark and second-place finish in the Pac-12 in 2023-24. The Cougars received a No. 7 seed in the NCAA Tournament, advancing to the round of 32 with a victory over Drake in the opening round. Yano was also the program's head manager from 2020-22.

Sandwiched between his time at Washington State, Yano spent one season at Hawaii as a graduate manager. The Warriors posted 22 wins in 2022-23 including a championship in the Diamond Head Classic.

Yano is a 2020 graduate of Washington State with a degree in journalism and media production. He added a graduate degree at the University of Hawaii in 2023.

MICHAEL ROBINSON

Associate Sports Performance Coach
2nd Season At Stanford
California Baptist, 2016

Michael Robinson is in his second season at Stanford as associate sports performance coach.

Robinson oversees all performance needs for the men's basketball program, including responsibilities in strength and conditioning, rehabilitation, nutrition, supplementation, recovery, and travel. He is a NSCA Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist and holds certifications in applied functional science and first aid/CPR.

In its first season in the ACC, and the first under Kyle Smith, the Cardinal finished the 2024-25 campaign at 21-14 overall, marking its most total victories since 2014-15 while matching a program record with 17 wins at Maples Pavilion. Stanford went 9-1 at home in the ACC, while numerous players had career-best seasons, led by All-American and ACC first team honoree and Scholar-Athlete of the Year, Maxime Raynaud.

He arrived on campus after seven seasons as assistant director of strength and conditioning at California Baptist from 2017-24, including time with the men's and women's basketball programs from 2021-24. He also directed programs for the Lancers' women's volleyball, swimming and diving, water polo and wrestling teams.

Robinson also spent two years as the head strength and conditioning coach with USA Water Polo, working with the U.S. Olympic men's team from 2023-24, and he was the head assistant men's basketball coach from 2016-17 at Citrus College.

A 2016 graduate of California Baptist, Robinson was a two-year letterwinner for the men's basketball program, where he helped lead the Lancers to back-to-back NCAA Division II Tournament appearances and the program's winningest season, including the PacWest Tournament Championship. He was previously a three-year member of the men's basketball team at UC San Diego from 2011-14.

HEAD COACH

KATE PAYE

Setsuko Ishiyama Director of Women's Basketball
Second Season, 19th Overall
Stanford, 1995

Kate Paye was hired as Stanford's Setsuko Ishiyama Director of Women's Basketball on April 16, 2024 and begins her second season as head coach in 2025-26.

The 51-year-old Stanford alumna has been part of two of the Cardinal's three national championships – as a player on the 1992 team and an associate head coach for the 2021 squad. One of the most respected assistant coaches in college basketball and a two-time WBCA Assistant Coach of the Year, she spent 17 years on Tara VanDerveer's staff and was promoted to associate head coach in 2016.

Since Paye's return to Stanford in 2007-08, the Cardinal has been one of the top teams in the nation, going 543-102 (.842) and winning the 2021 national championship, advancing to two other title games, nine total Final Fours and the Sweet Sixteen all but one year. Stanford's 527 wins in her time as an assistant were the second-most of any team in the nation over that span.

Working primarily with Stanford's guards while on VanDerveer's staff, the Cardinal perimeter players under Paye's tutelage were selected in the first round of the WNBA Draft six times, captured four first-team All-America nods, three Pac-12 Player of the Year awards, two Pac-12 Defensive Player of the Year awards and 28 first-team All-Pac-12 selections.

The nation clearly noticed Paye's prowess and she was twice selected as the Division I Assistant Coach of the Year by the WBCA (2022, 2024), the only coach to win the award multiple times.

A native of Woodside, Calif., Paye was a four-year member of the Stanford women's basketball team that claimed the national championship in 1992 and advanced to the NCAA Final Four in 1995. A three-time Pac-12 All-Academic selection and two-time team captain, Paye scored 743 points and averaged 3.22 assists and a steal per game in her Stanford career.

Paye earned her bachelor's degree in political science from Stanford in 1995. She also graduated with distinction with both her Juris Doctorate and master's degree in business administration from Stanford in 2003. Paye worked as a corporate attorney for Palo Alto-based, Cooley Godward LLP, before returning to the game of basketball.

Out of college, Paye served as assistant coach at San Diego State during the 1995-96 season before going on to play basketball professionally, competing with the Seattle Reign of the ABL for three seasons (1996-98) and later with the WNBA's Minnesota Lynx and Seattle Storm from 2000-02.

Prior to returning to her alma mater, Paye was again on staff with the Aztecs for two seasons and was an assistant at Pepperdine in 2004-05.

In addition to being born at Stanford hospital, Paye's entire immediate family all attended Stanford University. Both Paye's father and brother, each named John, lettered as members of the Stanford football team. Her father lettered in 1962, while her brother, Stanford's starting quarterback from 1983-86, currently ranks sixth all-time in the school record book with 7,669 career passing yards and sixth overall with a career mark of 7,539 yards of total offense. The younger John also earned three letters as a point guard with the Stanford men's basketball team from 1984-86.

Kate and her wife, Raquel, have three children, Cass, Anne, and Lauren.

TEMPIE BROWN

Harry K. and Ida S. Berland Associate Head Women's Basketball Coach
10th Season
Michigan, 1990

Tempie Brown returned for her second stint as an assistant coach at Stanford prior to the 2023-24 season and promoted to the position of Harry K. and Ida S. Berland Associate Head Women's Basketball Coach on April 23, 2024. Brown previously worked with the Cardinal for seven seasons from 2013-14 through 2019-20.

In her nine total seasons with the Cardinal, Stanford has gone 246-71 (.776) and made two Final Fours, four Elite Eights and seven Sweet Sixteens. The Cardinal captured two Pac-12 regular season (2014, 2024) and three Pac-12 Tournament championships (2015, 2017, 2019) during her tenure.

In her previous stint primarily working with Stanford's posts, Brown helped oversee the likes of All-American and current WNBA player Alanna Smith, as well as an honorable mention All-American and now fellow coach Erica McCall. Brown also helped Stanford assemble five consecutive top-10 classes on the recruiting trail.

Upon leaving Stanford in 2020, Brown moved to Michigan and worked as an athletic director for Okemos Public Schools.

Prior to her arrival on The Farm in 2013, Brown spent four years at Michigan State, rising to the position of associate head coach as she helped guide the Spartans to NCAA Tournament appearances each season, as well as the program's first Big Ten title in 2011.

Brown has spent more than two decades in the collegiate coaching ranks. Before her time in at Michigan State, she served as an assistant coach at Memphis (2008-09), Northwestern (2004-08), Lehigh (2002-04), Eastern Michigan (2000-02) and Saginaw Valley State (1999-2000).

Brown graduated from the University of Michigan in 1990 with a degree in kinesiology, and later finished her master's degree in exercise physiology in 1992. A four-year letterwinner and two-year captain from 1986-90 with the Wolverines, Brown still ranks among the program's top-15 scorers with 1,142 points, in addition to sitting in the top-20 in career assists and steals. As a sophomore, she was recognized as an All-Big Ten honorable mention in addition to being named the team's most improved player.

Brown and her wife, Malissa Burke, have two children, Lucas and Vivian.

KATY STEDING

Peiros Family Assistant Women's Basketball Coach
Sixth Season
Stanford, 1990

With five seasons under her belt as an assistant coach at her alma mater, former Cardinal student-athlete and Stanford Hall of Famer Katy Steding has helped the Cardinal maintain its position as one of the premier programs in women's college basketball.

Working primarily with the post players, Stanford has gone 138-33 (.807) in Steding's five seasons on The Farm, the fifth-most wins of any school in the nation during that span. The Cardinal won four Pac-12 regular season titles along with the 2021 and 2022 tournament championships and has gone 73-18 in conference during Steding's tenure. Under her guidance, Cameron Brink was earned three consecutive All-America honors and was named the WBCA Defensive Player of the Year as junior and Naismith Defensive Player of the Year as a senior.

Steding, Tara VanDerveer's first signed recruit, led Stanford to its 1990 NCAA title during her senior season and joined the Cardinal following an extensive professional career as a player and coaching stops at Warner Pacific, the Atlanta Dream, Columbia, California, Boston University and most recently, San Francisco.

Steding's name is littered throughout the Stanford record books, ranking 11th in career rebounds (864), 12th in career rebounding average (7.0), 15th in career scoring (1,586) and both sixth and ninth in single-season 3-point percentage as a junior (.446) and senior (.464). She also holds the program's single-game steals record with 10 at Northwestern in 1988 and was a three-time All-Pac-10 selection.

Following graduation, Steding embarked on a professional playing career overseas with stops in Japan and Spain before returning to the United States and earning a spot on the national team in 1995. Coached by VanDerveer, the "Women's Dream Team" compiled a 60-0 record that culminated with a gold medal at the 1996 Atlanta Olympics. After her time with Team USA, Steding became a founding player for the Portland Power of the American Basketball League before playing with Sacramento Monarchs and Seattle Storm of the WNBA. She retired from professional basketball in 2001.

Steding began her coaching career at Warner Pacific University in Portland. In seven seasons, she helped transition the program from club-level to a varsity team. Steding recorded a pair of 20-plus win seasons, leading the Knights to the NAIA Division II National Tournaments in 2004 and 2006. Steding then spent one season each as an assistant for the WNBA's Atlanta Dream and Columbia in New York City. Her first stop at San Francisco was as an assistant under former Stanford teammate, Jennifer Azzi, from 2010-12.

She then traveled across the Bay, serving as an assistant at California from 2012-2014, helping the Golden Bears to a trip to the Final Four in 2013, before being hired as head coach at Boston University. In her tenure, the Terriers enjoyed their highest conference win total since joining the Patriot League during the 2016-17 season. She returned to San Francisco as an associate head coach in 2018, working with yet another former Stanford teammate, Molly Goodenbour.

COACHING STAFF

HEATHER OESTERLE

Tara VanDerveer Assistant Women's Basketball Coach
Second Season
Michigan, 2002

Heather Oesterle was hired on April 25, 2024 to round out Setsuko Ishiyama Director of Women's Basketball Kate Paye's inaugural staff at Stanford. Oesterle made a return to The Farm after an accomplished coaching career that began with the Cardinal in 2002-03 and is in her second season back on staff in 2025-26.

Oesterle returned to Stanford after serving as the strategic program director for Notre Dame women's basketball in 2023-24, where she was the liaison for NIL education and brand-building for Fighting Irish student-athletes. Before that she was a four-year head coach at Central Michigan, winning the Mid-American Conference (MAC) regular-season title in 2020 and a MAC Tournament championship in 2021.

Prior to becoming the head coach at CMU, Oesterle served as an assistant in Mount Pleasant for nine seasons, including the final seven as associate head coach. During that time, she helped the team to three MAC championships, two MAC Tournament titles, and three trips to the NCAA Tournament, including a Sweet 16 appearance in 2018.

Oesterle was an assistant at Northern Illinois from 2008-10 and at Miami (Ohio) from 2003-08. She was a volunteer assistant at Stanford in 2002-03, helping the Cardinal to a 27-5 finish, the Pac 10 regular-season and tournament titles, and an NCAA Tournament berth.

As a player, Oesterle was a four-year contributor at Michigan. She served as the Wolverines' team captain in 2001-02 and was honored with the program's Leadership Award following her senior season. She helped Michigan to a four-year record of 76-45 (.628), which included two NCAA Tournament and two NIT appearances.

A native of Mason, Mich., Oesterle earned her bachelor's degree in kinesiology from Michigan in 2002 and her masters in sports studies from Miami in 2008.

COACHING STAFF

ERICA MCCALL

Assistant Coach
Third Season
Stanford, 2017

Erica McCall is in her third season as an assistant coach, returning to The Farm following a five-year professional career in the WNBA.

McCall played five seasons in the league with four different organizations before announcing her retirement in May 2023. She also has extensive experience with USA Basketball, having competed at the FIBA Americas U16 Championship, FIBA U17 World Championship, FIBA 3x3 U18 World Championships and 2015 Summer Universiade.

Named a 2016-17 honorable mention All-American by both the Associated Press and the WBCA, McCall led the Cardinal to four NCAA Tournament appearances, including Final Four runs in 2014 and 2017.

A WNBA second-round pick (17th overall) by the Indiana Fever in 2017, McCall was a two-time All-Pac-12 performer who guided to two Final Fours, three Elite Eights, three Pac-12 championships and a 118-28 overall record.

McCall averaged team highs in points (14.4), rebounds (9.0) and blocks (1.7) as a senior, scoring in double figures in 31 games while grabbing 10 or more rebounds 17 times. She was named the Most Outstanding Player at the Pac-12 Tournament after averaging 11.0 points, 10.7 rebounds and 3.0 blocks in Stanford's three wins and was equally impressive in the NCAA Tournament, putting up 13.0 points and 11.0 rebounds per game.

McCall's career totals of 1,376 points, 976 rebounds and 200 blocks make her one of nine players in Pac-12 history with 1,350/950/200. McCall was named to the 2016-17 CoSIDA Academic All-American Division I second team and is one of 14 Academic All-Americans in program history.

A native of Bakersfield, California, McCall graduated with a degree in psychology in 2017.

COACHING STAFF

JEANETTE POHLEN

Assistant Coach
Second Season, Fifth Overall
Stanford, 2011

A familiar face on The Farm, Jeanette Pohlen moved to the bench to begin her coaching career as part of Setusko Ishiyama Director of Women's Basketball Kate Paye's inaugural staff in 2024-25 and is in her second season as an assistant coach in 2025-26.

A 2011 Stanford graduate with a degree in communication, Pohlen returned to Stanford as a coaching intern in 2021-22 before assuming a player development position for two seasons.

Playing for the Cardinal from 2007-11, Pohlen was the 2011 Pac-10 Player of the Year and named to the All-America teams of the Associated Press (first team), USBWA and Wooden Award after averaging 14.5 points, 3.2 rebounds and 4.8 assists per game as a senior. She shot 41.7 percent from behind the arc and made what was then a school-record 96 3-pointers.

The Cardinal went to four straight Final Fours during Pohlen's collegiate career, including runner-up finishes in the NCAA Tournament in 2008 and 2010. Overall, Stanford was 137-14 in her four years and dominated the conference, winning the Pac-10 regular-season and tournament titles all four years.

A three-time all-conference performer, she was selected with the ninth overall pick in the 2011 WNBA Draft by the Indiana Fever. Pohlen played in 148 career games for the franchise, winning a WNBA title in 2012.

Pohlen's name is littered throughout Stanford's record book. She's third in school history in games (150) and minutes played (4,355), fourth in 3-pointers (268), sixth in assists (560), ninth in free throw percentage (.813) and 21st in points (1,453).

VIC SAUCEDO

Associate Sports Performance Coach
Second Season
Utah State, 2017

Vic Saucedo is in her second season at Stanford following two years as the women's basketball director of sports performance at VCU. She has also worked at Wake Forest, Saint Louis and was a graduate assistant at Northern Arizona.

At Wake Forest, Saucedo helped create and implement both individual and team training goals while assisting with monitoring nutrition and supplements. At Saint Louis, she worked as an assistant strength and conditioning coach and led programs for the Billikens' volleyball, softball, track & field, field hockey and swimming & diving teams. Saucedo also assisted with both the men's and women's basketball programs at SLU.

Saucedo holds a CSCS certification as well as an FCR Mobility certification. She graduated from Utah State, where she played softball, with a bachelor of science in human movement and holds a master's degree from Northern Arizona in psychology.

SARA VARGAS

Associate Director • Athletic Training
First Season
Pacific, 2009

Sara Vargas is in her first year on The Farm in 2025-26 following a 15-year run at Pacific.

A 2009 graduate of Pacific with a bachelor's in sports sciences and an emphasis in athletic training, Vargas returned to her alma mater prior to the 2011-12 season to work with the women's basketball and tennis programs. She was promoted to Senior Associate Director of Sports Medicine in August 2023.

After graduation, Vargas pursued a master's at Utah State where she worked with the Aggies' football and women's soccer programs. She earned her master's in sports medicine in 2011 and is a member of both the National Athletic Trainers' Association and Far West Athletic Trainers' Association.

EILEEN ROCHE

Assistant Athletics Director • Basketball Operations
21st Season
Ohio Wesleyan, 1981

Eileen Roche recently completed her 20th season at Stanford, serving as the women's basketball program's assistant athletics director of basketball operations.

Roche's responsibilities include opponent scheduling and securing of contracts, facility scheduling home and away and assisting the coaching staff in day-to-day operations.

Other duties include game day management and the coordination and planning of various team events and special projects related to the women's program. Roche works closely with other athletic department staffs as well as those of facilities, marketing, communications and development.

Roche is the liaison to the Fast Break Club, Stanford's women's basketball booster organization. She also serves as assistant tournament director for the NCAA Women's Basketball Tournament first and second rounds hosted at Stanford. In addition, Roche is the camp director for Tara VanDerveer's summer basketball camps.

Prior to her arrival at Stanford, Roche was an event coordinator and championship director for the CIF-Central Coast Section (CCS), High School Athletic Championships, from 1990-2005. She also served as the CIF (California Interscholastic Federation) NorCal volleyball director 1999-2005.

This is Roche's second stint at Stanford as she served as an assistant coach from 1982-85. Roche began her career as an assistant coach at Virginia Tech in 1981-82. She was the head women's basketball coach at West Valley Community College in 1985-86.

Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., Roche grew up in Berkeley Heights, N.J. She earned her bachelor's in health education and physical education with a K-12 teaching credential and a minor in coaching, from Ohio Wesleyan University in 1981. A three-sport athlete, Roche played basketball, field hockey and softball, earning 12 varsity letters as a Bishop. She was inducted into the Ohio Wesleyan University Athletic Hall Fame in 1989.

Roche has been a Bay Area resident for over 30 years and is the proud mother of two sons, Conor and Christian.

BRIAN SHANK

Technology Coordinator
Fourth Season
Rutgers, 2016

Brian Shank enters his fourth season as technology coordinator with Stanford women's basketball in 2025-26.

Shank arrived on The Farm after spending eight seasons with Rutgers women's basketball where he served as the director of video and assistant director of basketball operations. Shank moved into those roles after spending two seasons as a manager with the program from 2014-16.

As a student at Rutgers, Shank also worked with the school's football program along with various summer camps on campus, including wrestling, men's soccer, men's lacrosse and both basketball programs.

Shank spent the summer of 2015 as a student intern with the Lafayette women's basketball team.

The nephew of former Rutgers women's basketball coach Theresa Grentz, a member of the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame Class of 2022, Shank has also worked as the Vice President/Director of Operations with Grentz Elite Coaching, which provided players with individualized basketball instruction and skill development, as well as camps and clinics throughout the country.

Shank features experience working with USA Basketball in Colorado Springs as well, earning roles in 2017 and 2019 for national team tryouts for various international tournaments.

A native of Somerset, New Jersey, Shank graduated from Rutgers in 2016 with a degree in exercise science with a concentration in sports management, along with a masters in global sports business in 2022.

MALIA BATES

Director of Student-Athlete Development
Second Season
Redlands, 2018

Bates is in her second season as Stanford women's basketball's director of student-athlete development in 2025-26.

In her role, she leads the program's NIL efforts, building out program-specific strategies to elevate the influence and marketability of the team's student-athletes. Working closely with the department's in-house NIL general manager, Bates assists student-athletes to develop their portfolio of NIL deals and collaborates with Stanford's external relations unit to enhance the visibility of the program. Among other responsibilities, she also coordinates community service initiatives for the team and workshops focused on financial literacy and long-term financial planning.

Bates came to The Farm following three years with the San Jose Sharks, first as an integrated marketing coordinator and later as the franchise's brand marketing manager. She had previous stops with the Santa Clara County Association of Realtors as a special events and marketing coordinator and the San Francisco 49ers as an event sales and fundraising associate.

A magna cum laude graduate of the University of Redlands with a degree in media and communications, Bates received her master's in sport management from Michigan.

KARLIE SAMUELSON & AMY ARNES

Intern
First Season
Stanford, 2017

Karlie Samuelson has made a return to The Farm as an intern for the 2025-26 campaign as she rehabs from a left foot injury sustained during the WNBA season.

Samuelson has played for six franchises across seven WNBA seasons since her graduation from Stanford in 2017. Over 121 career games, the 6-0 guard has averaged 5.3 points and 2.0 rebounds while shooting 41.1 percent from the field and 39.2 from deep.

Samuelson averaged career highs in points (12.4), rebounds (3.4) and assists (2.7) and personal bests in field goal percentage (.482) and 3-point field goal percentage (.485) in leading the Cardinal to the 2017 Final Four as a senior. She finished second in the nation in 3-point field goal percentage, a mark good for second in school single-season history and fifth in Pac-12 history.

Her 96 made 3-pointers in 2016-17 are tied with Jeanette Pohlen for second in Stanford history, tied for eighth in Pac-12 history, and her 249 career 3-pointers are fifth in the school record books. A career 44.3 percent 3-point shooter, Samuelson is second at Stanford to Jennifer Azzi, fifth in Pac-12 history and 21st in NCAA history. She ended her playing time at Stanford with the best career 3-point percentage for any Pac-12 player since 1990.

Intern
First Season
UCLA, 2024

Amy Arnes is in her first season as an intern with the Stanford women's basketball program in 2025-26.

A native of Sunnyvale, Arnes is a 2020 graduate of Archbishop Mitty High School, where she of both the basketball and track & field teams. She earned her associate's degree from De Anza College in 2022, graduating magna cum laude, and transferred to UCLA, where she also graduated magna cum laude with her bachelor's in political science and a minor in environmental systems and society.

While in Westwood, Arnes served as a student manager with the women's basketball program in 2024-25 and was also a member of the UCLA Powerlifting Team. She earned her master's in transformative coaching and leadership from UCLA in 2025.

Arnes has worked Stanford basketball camp each of the past two summers and also has coaching experience, working with the throwers for Homestead High School's track & field team in 2021 and 2022.

ALL-AMERICANS

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

JAYNE APPEL (2009-10)

A two-time State Farm Coaches' All-America selection (2009-10), Appel captained the Cardinal to three straight Final Four appearances and a pair of national title games. She was a three-time All-Pac-10 selection (2008-10) and the 2009 Pac-10 Player of the Year, finishing her Stanford career atop both the school's and Pac-10's career rebounding list with 1,263 boards. In 2009, Appel had one of her best moments when she scored a Stanford-record 46 points in the 2009 Regional Final against Iowa State. In the Cardinal record books, Appel ended her career first in blocked shots (273), second in games played (147), third in points scored (2,125), shooting percentage (.565) and rebounds per game (8.6), and seventh in points per game (14.5). She also became the third Cardinal to reach 2,000 career points and 1,000 career rebounds, joining Nicole Powell and Val Whiting.

JENNIFER AZZI (1989-90)

Stanford's first national superstar, Jennifer Azzi was the 1990 Wade Trophy winner as well as the Naismith National Player of the Year and Honda-Broderick Award recipient. Azzi was a two-time Kodak All-American and the 1990 Pac-10 Player of the Year, becoming the first Stanford player to earn each honor. Azzi averaged 13.4 points, 3.8 rebounds and 6.1 assists per game for the Cardinal during her career, as Stanford accumulated a 101-23 record, two Pac-10 Championships and its first NCAA Championship in 1990. Azzi ended her career on The Farm as the school's career leader in three-pointers made (19) and attempted (423), assists (751) and steals (271).

CAMERON BRINK (2022-24)

A two-time National Defensive Player of the Year, Cameron Brink became the fifth three-time All-American from Stanford in 2024. In her senior season, she was the only player in the country to average 17.0 points (17.4), 11.0 rebounds (11.9) and 3.0 blocks per game (3.74). Brink led the nation with a school-record 127 blocks en route to Naismith Defensive Player of the Year honors and her 424 career rejections are the 14th most in NCAA history. She was fifth nationally in rebounds per game, averaging a team-best 11.9, the third best in program history behind Chiney Ogwumike in both 2012-13 (12.9) and 2013-14 (12.1). Brink's career totals of 1,892 points, 1,223 rebounds, 226 assists and 424 blocks make her the third player with 1,800 points, 1,200 rebounds, 200 assists and 400 blocks in the past 25 years along with Brittney Griner (Baylor) and Courtney Paris (Oklahoma). In 2023-24, she also became the first college player with 500 points, 300 rebounds and 100 blocks in back-to-back seasons since UConn's Breanna Stewart (2014-16).

KRISTIN FOLKL (1998)

In her senior season, Kristin Folkl was named a Kodak First Team All-American, a Naismith Player of the Year finalist, and a GTE/COSIDA Second Team Academic All-American. Folkl was chosen as an All-Pac-10 Freshman in 1995 and was all-conference in 1998. She wrapped up her collegiate basketball career leading the team in scoring and rebounds with 18.9 points and 9.2 rebounds per game her senior year. Folkl helped the Cardinal to two Final Four appearances and three Pac-10 Championships. Folkl also competed on the Stanford volleyball team helping Stanford to three NCAA Championships in 1994, 1996 and 1997.

SONJA HENNING (1991)

Sonja Henning's Stanford career began on the right note as she was named the Women's Basketball News Service Collegiate Freshman Player of the Year in 1988. She went on to be a key part of Stanford's first national championship in 1990, starting all 33 games and leading the team with 221 assists. As a senior in 1990-91, Henning was named to the Kodak All-America Team and the NCAA Women's All-Final Four Team as the Cardinal made its second straight appearance at the marquee event. Over her four-year Stanford career, Henning was named to All-Pac-10 three consecutive years (1989-91), led Stanford to a four-year record of 113-15 and helped the Cardinal to its first NCAA Championship in 1990. Henning, following her junior year on The Farm, was a member of the USA Basketball Goodwill Games and FIBA World Championship Teams in 1990, winning gold with each, and was part of the USA Basketball Pan-American Games bronze medal-winning team following her graduation in 1991.

HALEY JONES (2022)

Haley Jones, the coaches choice for Pac-12 Player of the Year, was one of only three Power 5 players in the country averaging at least 12.9 points, 7.8 rebounds and 3.7 assists per game in 2021-22. She scored in double figures 24 times, including 14 of Stanford's 19 games against conference opponents, while totaling 10 double-doubles, along with the first triple-double at Stanford in nearly two decades with 17 points, 12 rebounds and 10 assists against Portland. Known for playing her best in the big moments, Jones was named the Pac-12 Tournament Most Outstanding Player after averaging 18.7 points, 8.0 rebounds and 4.3 assists in Las Vegas. She also had a number of big performances in the regular season, including a season-high 26 vs. California and 18 points, 19 rebounds and six assists in a victory at No. 7 Tennessee, joining Chiney Ogwumike as the only Division I players this century with that line in an AP top-10 road matchup.

CHINEY OGWUMIKE (2012-14)

The recipient of the 2014 John R. Wooden award presented to the national player of the year, Chiney Ogwumike is one of Stanford's four three-time WBCA All-Americans along with Candice Wiggins (2005-08), Nnemkadi Ogwumike (2010-12) and Nicole Powell (2002-04). She ended her four-year career as the Pac-12's all-time leading scorer (2,737 points) and rebounder (1,567), and set the conference record for points scored in a season with 967 in a historic senior campaign. In 2014, Ogwumike was the only player in the country to rank in the NCAA top 10 in scoring (26.1 pppg – fourth), field goal percentage (60.1 – fourth) and rebounding (12.1 rpg – ninth), and swept the Pac-12 Player and Defensive Player of the Year awards for the second straight season. She was a two-time consensus All-American (2013 and 2014) and earned her first WBCA All-America honor in 2012 after becoming one of just four Stanford players to average a double-double (15.0 ppg, 10.1 rpg). In 2012-13 she bettered those numbers in winning the Pac-12 Triple Crown (22.4 ppg, 12.9 rpg, 58.6 FG pct.) and capped her impressive career with averages of 26.1 points and 12.1 rebounds per game in 2013-14.

NNEMKADI OGWUMIKE (2010-12)

Nnemkadi Ogwumike became Stanford's third three-time All-American when she was named to the WBCA Coaches' All-America Team in 2012. Ogwumike's selection capped an all-time great career which included four Final Four appearances, an undefeated record at Maples Pavilion and numerous Cardinal records including becoming the fourth member of the 2,000-point, 1,000-rebound club. In her senior campaign, Ogwumike set what were then Stanford single-season benchmarks for points scored (809) and scoring average (22.5). She was named Pac-12 Player of the Year for the second time, and earned her second straight Pac-12 Tournament MVP as well as a third NCAA Regional MVP in a row. In 2009-10, Ogwumike became the first sophomore since Candice Wiggins to be named Pac-10 Player of the Year, leading the conference with 18.5 points per game and a 59.8 shooting percentage, and just missed out on the conference's triple crown, finishing second with 9.9 rebounds per game.

ALL-AMERICANS

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

JEANETTE POHLEN (2011)

Jeanette Pohlen was named to the Associated Press All-America First Team after a breakout season in 2010-11. Pohlen's fearless play and leadership helped carry the Cardinal to a second straight 18-0 conference record and her to the Pac-10 Player of the Year award. She averaged 14.5 points per game, made a Stanford single-season record 96 3-pointers, and ended her Cardinal career with 1,453 points (16th overall), 268 3-pointers made (second), 560 assists (sixth) and tied for the Stanford career lead in games played with 150. On Dec. 30, 2010, she played the key role in Stanford ending Connecticut's NCAA-record 90-game winning streak, scoring 31 points with nine rebounds and six assists in the 71-59 Cardinal win.

NICOLE POWELL (2002-04)

Nicole Powell was a Kodak First Team All-American and a finalist for the James Naismith Player of the Year for three consecutive years (2002-04). She began her career with the Cardinal as Pac-10 Freshman of the Year in 2000 and was named Conference Player of the Year in 2002 and 2004. Powell helped Stanford accumulate a 105-26 record over her four years, averaging 17.3 points, 9.6 rebounds and 4.8 assists for the Cardinal. She ended her collegiate career as Stanford's all-time leader in career rebounds (1,143) and third all-time leading scorer (2,062 points). Powell is the only player in Pac-10 history to have recorded more than one career triple-double, tallying six.

ALANNA SMITH (2019)

Becoming an All-American in 2019, Alanna Smith had a superb senior season in which she shot 51.5 percent from the field, 39.7 percent from behind the arc and averaged a team-high 19.4 points per game to go with 8.6 rebounds and 2.2 blocks. She was 34th in the country in scoring and 33rd in blocks, the only player in the nation in the top 40 in both categories, and was one of two players in the country to average 19.0 points, 8.0 rebounds and 2.0 blocks per game. The 6-foot-4 forward finished her career 10th in school history in scoring (1,703) and second in blocks (225) and made 155 career 3-pointers to become just the fourth NCAA women's basketball player over the previous 20 years to put together a career of 1,600 points, 150 made triples and 200 blocks (Elena Delle Donne, Maya Moore, Breanna Stewart).

KATE STARBIRD (1996-97)

Kate Starbird won the James Naismith National Player of the Year in 1997 and was a Kodak First Team All-American in 1996 and 1997. Starbird was tabbed All-Pac-10 in both 1995 and 1996, and helped the Cardinal to three-consecutive Pac-10 Championships (1995-97). She led Stanford to a 118-14 record and three Final Four appearances. Starbird averaged 16.9 points per game, 3.9 rebounds and 3.3 assists and finished her career at Stanford as the all-time high scorer with 2,215 points.

VAL WHITING (1992-93)

Val Whiting was a two-time Kodak First Team All-American, and a two-time James Naismith Player of the Year Finalist in 1992 and 1993. She began her career for the Cardinal by being named Pac-10 Freshman of the Year and National Freshman of the Year by Women's Basketball News Service in 1990. She was an NCAA All-Final Four selection in 1992 and All-Pac-10 in 1992 and 1993. During her career, Stanford accumulated a 114-16 record and won four-consecutive Pac-10 Championships and two NCAA Championships in 1990 and 1992. At the time that she finished her career, she was Stanford's all-time leading scorer with 2,077 points and the top rebounder with 1,134 rebounds.

CANDICE WIGGINS (2005-08)

Candice Wiggins ended her collegiate career in 2008 as the only four-time WBCA/State Farm and WBCA/Kodak All-American in Stanford history, also earning All-America honors from the Associated Press four times (second team – 2005-07, first team – 2008). The San Diego native led Stanford in scoring in 2007-08 and became the program's second player to be named the State Farm Wade Trophy Player of the Year, helping the Cardinal to its eighth straight Pac-10 title and the program's seventh Final Four. Wiggins' 787 points in 2007-08 broke not only the school and Pac-10 single-season records at the time, but also contributed to her becoming Stanford's and the Pac-10's all-time leading scorer upon graduation with 2,629 points. The Pac-10's first three-time Player of the Year (2005-06, 2008), Wiggins left The Farm as the owner of 10 career records. In addition to her All-America honors, in her rookie season, Wiggins was also named the U.S. Basketball Writers Association Co-Freshman of the Year and the Pac-10 Freshman of the Year in 2005. She helped the Cardinal to a 122-20 record in her four seasons and its first national championship game in 16 years in 2008.

KIANA WILLIAMS (2021)

Kiana Williams collected her first All-America honors after a dream senior season in 2021, culminating in the NCAA national championship in her hometown of San Antonio, Texas, Stanford's third title in program history and first in 29 years. Williams led the Cardinal to a 31-2 record overall and both the Pac-12 regular season and tournament championships while averaging a team-high 14.0 points and 3.1 assists per game, making 82 3-pointers. She finished her career at Stanford as the program leader with 311 career 3-pointers, while her 1,834 career points rank 10th and her 464 career assists are ninth. Williams never missed a game after stepping on campus for the Cardinal, with 128 consecutive starts. Williams was named both the Pac-12 Tournament and NCAA Tournament Alamo Region Most Outstanding Player.

FACILITIES

STANFORD ATHLETIC FACILITIES

Stanford University is home to some of the finest athletic facilities in the nation. Student-athletes at Stanford can use the latest and most up-to-date strength and training technology while competing in some of the country's top facilities.

Stanford football players utilize four practice fields, a state-of-the-art training room and the Arrillaga Family Sports Center Varsity Weight Room that features the most modern and up-to-date equipment and technology available in the field of strength and conditioning.

Many athletic facilities at Stanford are considered among the best in the country, including Sunken Diamond, home of Stanford baseball; Maples Pavilion, home to Cardinal basketball and volleyball, among others; the Avery Aquatic Center, where NCAA champions and future Olympians train; Cobb Track & Angell Field; and the Taube Family Tennis Stadium, home to 39 national championship trophies.

ARRILLAGA FAMILY SPORTS CENTER

The Arrillaga Family Sports Center, which opened in January of 1994, is the home of the Stanford Athletic Department. Funded by the gifts of 23 donors, the Arrillaga Family Sports Center is a state-of-the-art facility that helps give Stanford one of the finest sets of athletic facilities in the country. Included in the Arrillaga Family Sports Center are Athletic Department administrative and coaching staff offices, Home of Champions, Stanford's brand new Hall of Fame, the Harvey Bernhard Football Locker Room, a recreation locker room, a wrestling/martial arts room, a sports medicine center, a 16,000 square foot weight training facility, a dining room which is open to the public and used for student-athlete training tables, a conference center and other ancillary facilities.

Named areas in the Sports Center include the John and Kathy Kissick Auditorium; the Phillip H. and Penelope P. Knight Sports Medicine Center; the Forman Family Athletic Director's Suite; and the Weintz Wrestling and Martial Arts Room.

THE ARRILLAGA CENTER FOR SPORTS AND RECREATION

The 75,000 square foot Arrillaga Center for Sports and Recreation is a recreation facility for students, faculty and staff. It includes an 11,000 square foot fitness room with weight machines and cardio equipment, the Erickson Family Courts (three full length basketball courts), the Whiting Family Climbing Wall, seven squash courts, including one glass competition court, the Fencing Center, which is home to Stanford's Fencing team and a 3,600 square foot studio used for yoga, Tae Kwon Do, wrestling and other activities. Also located in the building for use by Stanford's varsity intercollegiate student-athletes are the Lacob Family Sports Medicine and Human Performance Center as well as the Rosenberg Academic Resource Center.

MAPLES PAVILION

STANFORD BASKETBALL

One of the best environments for college basketball can be found at Maples Pavilion. Built in 1969, Maples Pavilion has been host to many of the most memorable collegiate games in the nation over recent years.

The facility underwent a substantial $26-million renovation that was completed in 2004-05 and recently received $1.2 million in display upgrades in the summer of 2015.

Maples Pavilion serves as home for the men's and women's basketball teams and men's and women's volleyball programs. The men's and women's gymnastics squads and wrestling team also occasionally host home events in the facility.

The renovations, financed entirely through private donations, has enhanced the college athletic experience for both student-athletes and fans. The new center-hung scoreboard is a Daktronics 6mm display, an upgrade to full HD and features a 16x9 aspect ratio. In addition to the scoreboard, new LED tables and corner boards were part of the improvements. The corner displays give in-venue production teams the ability to communicate stat information without taking up real estate on the main, center-hung board, allowing for replays and live video on a full-screen, high-definition canvas.

The 2004-05 facelift included a new covered 29,000-square-foot concourse around the exterior of the seating area, concession and restroom facilities with speaker systems. The concourse is physically separated from the original building. The gap between the original building and the new concourse was designed for two reasons: to preserve the integrity of the architectural design and create an open garden feel that is present throughout buildings on the Stanford campus. The renovation also included the new playing court floor, upgraded locker rooms, student-athlete lounges, strength and conditioning room, athletic training room, media workroom and courtside room for pre and post-game functions.

The seating configuration features a lower bowl seating area that replaced the old floor and loge sections. The newer lower seating level includes padded stadium seats that replaced the wood bleachers in the old floor setup. With the upgraded facilities and the improved seating area at floor level, the home team and fans experience the most intimate playing atmosphere in the Pac-12.

The 7,233-seat structure serves the entire university as a multi-purpose facility. It was originally built at a cost of $3.3 million. It was named after its principal donor, Roscoe Maples, a member of the 1904 Stanford class.

STANFORD ATHLETICS
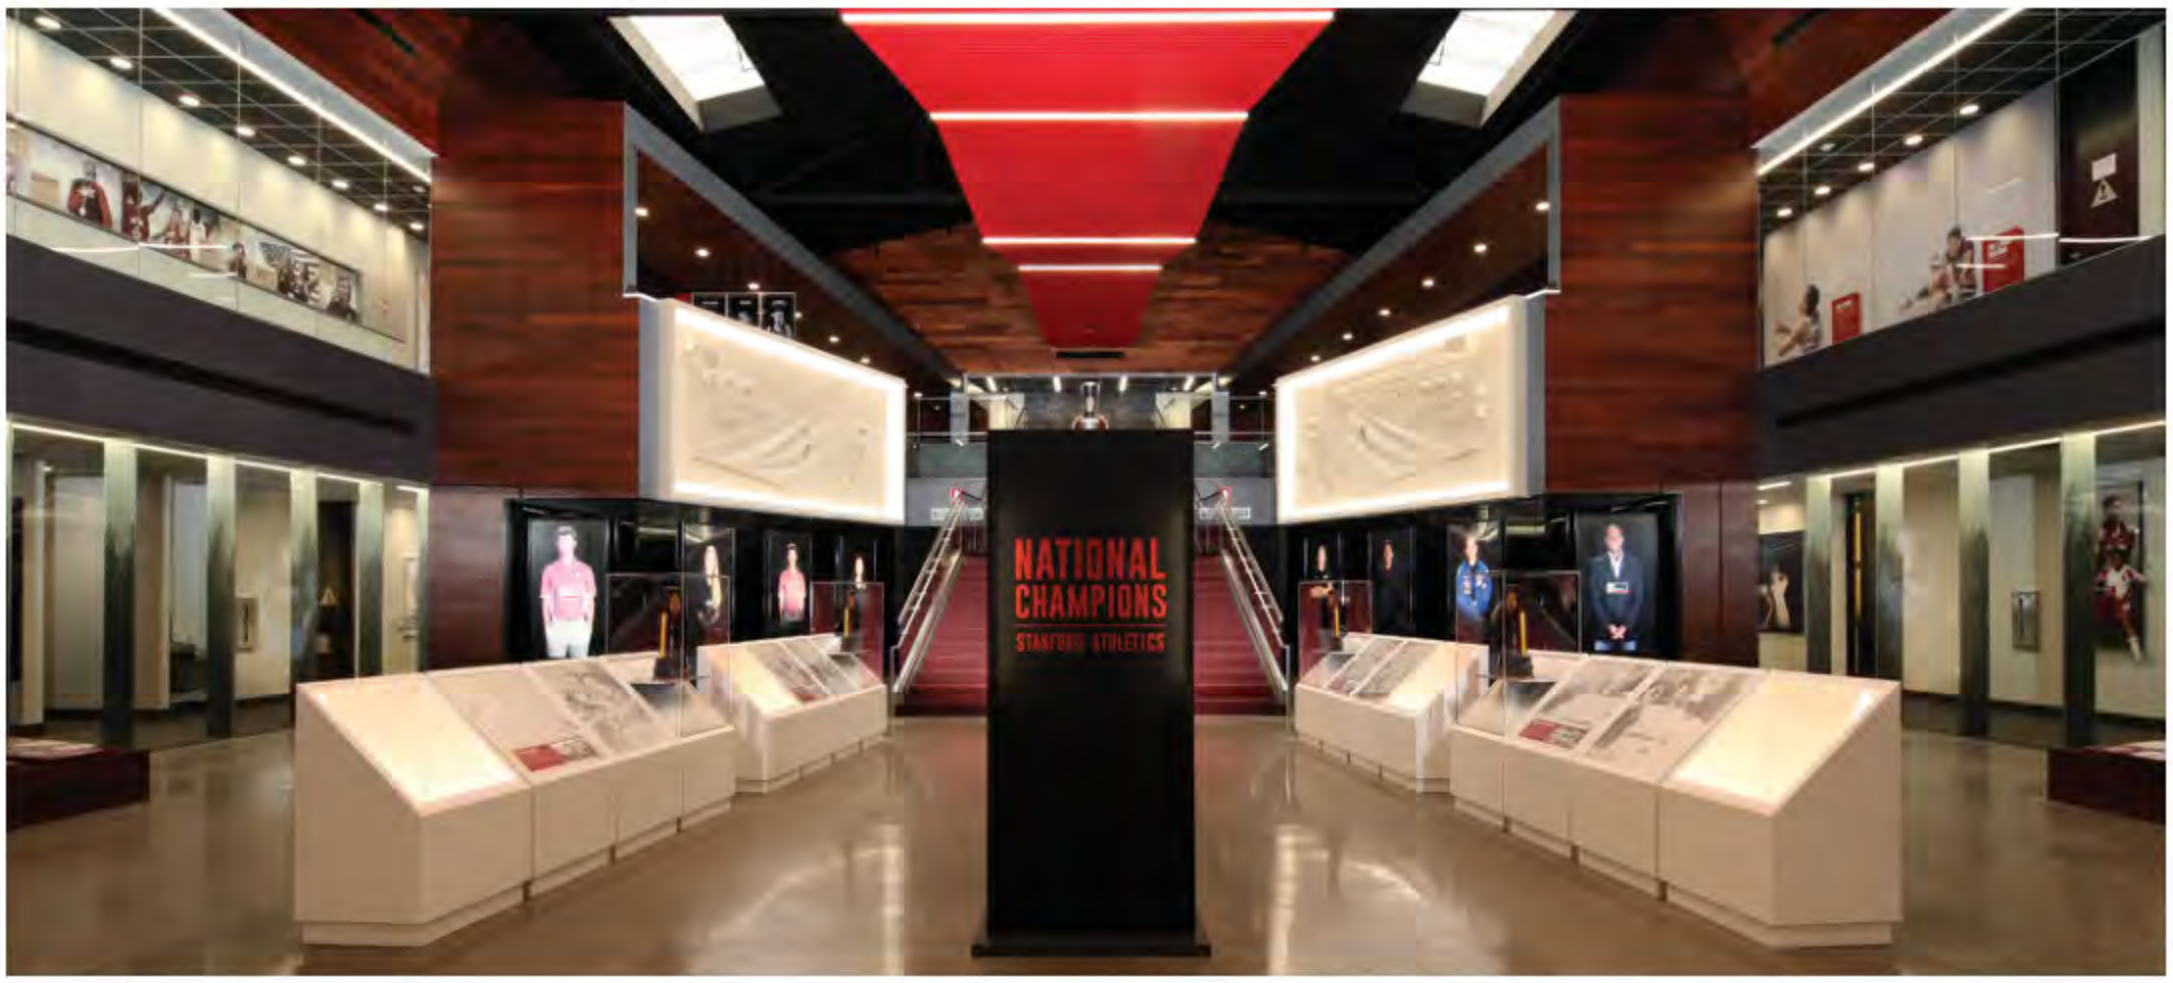
HOME OF CHAMPIONS

The Home of Champions is an 18,000 square foot, two-story museum and hall of fame, showcasing the rich history and tradition of Stanford Athletics. Along with trophies, the exhibits are interactive and engaging. The Home of Champions was created by Advent, one of the nation's leading design firms, and celebrates the accomplishments and journeys of current and former Stanford student-athletes.



The Home of Champions is located in the Arrillaga Family Sports Center, at 641 East Campus Drive on the Stanford campus, next to Maples Pavilion. Admission is free.

Hours are Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays. The Home of Champions is closed most Sundays, but open for ticketed events at Maples Pavilion and for special events like Reunion Homecoming or Admit Weekend. Hours will vary for home football games, but generally the Home of Champions will open four hours before game time and close 90 minutes before kickoff.

TRADITIONS

STANFORD ATHLETICS

GAMEDAY AT STANFORD IS FULL OF TRADITION, COLOR AND PAGEANTRY

HERE ARE SOME OF THE STANFORD TRADITIONS:

TRADITIONS

The unique origins of Stanford's mascot and nickname have a history that dates back to the University's founding in 1891. While the Cardinal has always been one of the school's official colors, the nickname has gone through a series of changes, student votes, controversy and confusion.

Since 1981, Stanford has been known as the Cardinal. Stanford does not have an official mascot. The "Tree," which is a member of the Stanford Band, often times is mistaken for the school's mascot.

NICKNAME

The nickname for Stanford is the Cardinal -- in reference to one of the school colors. Stanford's history with its nickname began on March 19, 1891, when Stanford beat Cal in the first Big Game. While Stanford did not have an official nickname at the time, the day after the Big Game local newspapers picked up the "cardinal" theme and used it in the headlines.

THE MASCOT

There is no official mascot of Stanford University. The "Tree," which is a member of the Stanford Band, is representative of El Palo Alto, the Redwood tree which is the logo of the city of Palo Alto. Since Stanford and Palo Alto are almost inextricably intertwined in interests and location, it is a natural outgrowth of this relationship. The tree still exists and stands by the railroad bridge beside San Francisquito Creek -- it is the site where early explorers first camped when settling the area. While various other mascots have been suggested and then allowed to wither, the color has continued to serve us well, as it has for 90 years. It is a rich and vivid metaphor for the very pulse of life.

THE COLORS

When Stanford first accepted students in 1891, the student body actually voted for gold as the school's color, but another student assembly chose Cardinal as the school color. A few days after the vote, local sportswriters picked up the "cardinal" theme after Stanford defeated Cal in the first Big Game on March 19, 1891. The headlines read, "Cardinal Triumphs O'er Blue and Gold."

Cardinal remained the school color until the 1940s, when the rules committee and conferences started regulating jersey colors for home and visiting football teams. Stanford's Board of Athletic Control adopted white as the second color. Today, Stanford's official school colors are cardinal and white.

THE LELAND STANFORD JUNIOR UNIVERSITY MARCHING BAND

The modern Leland Stanford Junior University Marching Band was formed in 1963 when members of the marching band went on strike to protest the firing of the band director. According to lore, the new director, Arthur P. Barnes, immediately won the loyalty of the band by relinquishing any meaningful control over it.

Empowered, the student-led band threw away the traditional marching music and uniforms, eventually settling for a mostly rock and roll repertoire and a simplified uniform consisting of a white fishing hat with red trim, red blazer, black pants and "the ugliest tie you can get your hands on."
